Collections-Connections-Communities

Cambridge Festival

Using the Collections to Connect the University to Communities

31st March, 13:00 (online)

<https://www.festival.cam.ac.uk/events/using-collections-connect-university-communities>

The event marks the launch of a new Strategic Research Initiative at the University of Cambridge, Collections-Connections-Communities, to prompt innovative research on the University's vast and exceptional collections in its Gardens, Libraries, Archives and Museums.

The event will feature three new short films, each highlighting innovative approaches to researching the collections within the themes of environment, well-being and identity. Researchers and practitioners from across the University collections will discuss their ongoing projects, and the importance of collections-based activities. We will then invite you to join in a discussion with the stars of each film, and the co-Chairs of the CCC. As well as your questions about the collections and current research projects, we want to hear how you think you can contribute to the future plans of this exciting new collaboration.

V&A Culture in Crisis Programme

Heritage and Humanitarian Collaboration in Emergency Response

Tuesday 5 April 1400 - 1500 (GMT)

Submission deadline for extended abstract: 29th July 2022

Submission deadline for full papers: 30th June 2023

Aims and Scope

Climate change is having a profound impact on our practical, technical, and philosophical approaches to building conservation. From mitigation to adaptation to managed loss, conservators are faced with increasingly challenging decisions for the future of our historic built environment. At the same time, it is recognised that many of these buildings offer important lessons from a pre-industrial age. This special issue aims to collate current research into the complex relationship between climate change and built heritage. Contributions are welcomed that consider the technical and philosophical challenges under the sub-themes. Where a paper does not fit under a specified theme or spans more than one, please incorporate a note to that effect in a cover letter with the submission.

Cambridge Interfaith Programme

Cambridge Interfaith Programme

4-15 July 2022

<https://www.interfaith.cam.ac.uk/students/academic-summer-school-interfaith-relations>

Cambridge Interfaith Programme is pleased to invite applications for our 2022 Academic Summer School. The Summer School will run from Monday 4 July to Friday 15 July, with online timetabled sessions supplemented by unscheduled activities for participants to complete independently. An early bird discount (25%) is available for those applying before the end of April.

This is an opportunity to study with University of Cambridge professors and lecturers, guided by academic convenors from the Faculty of Divinity's dedicated interfaith programme. The team offer a comprehensive, in-depth and interactive course addressing interreligious relations from different disciplinary perspectives, including anthropology, philosophy, theology, history and comparative study.

This year's timetable includes an introduction to Scriptural Reasoning, hands-on experience with different methods and approaches, and an information session on opportunities for further study.

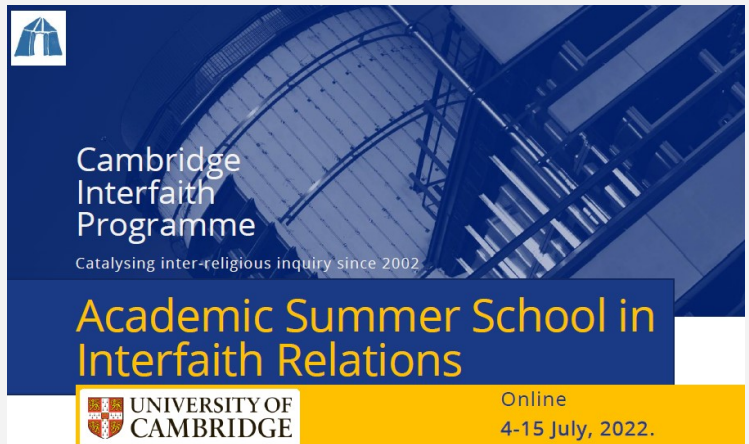

The course is open to anyone with a genuine curiosity about the subject matter, though the ability to read academic texts in English will be beneficial. Our previous cohort included students, researchers, practitioners and faith leaders, spanning 5 continents. This year, we have adapted the timetable, based on their feedback, with all core sessions intended to run between 1pm and 4pm BST (UTC+1).

This year, CIP is pleased to introduce a bursary scheme, offering an 80% fee reduction. A minimum of 5 places have been reserved for bursary applicants.

Full information about the programme, is available online and as a PDF brochure to download.

There is limited capacity on this programme. Places will be allocated as applications are processed. If you are keen to join us, please apply soon to maximise your chance to secure a place.

The banner features a blue background with a photograph of a large, modern architectural structure, possibly a dome or a large hall, with a grid of lines. In the top left corner, there is a small icon of a building. The text on the banner reads: 'Cambridge Interfaith Programme' in white, followed by 'Catalysing inter-religious inquiry since 2002' in a smaller font. Below this, 'Academic Summer School in Interfaith Relations' is written in large, bold, yellow letters. At the bottom, there is a yellow bar containing the University of Cambridge logo and the text 'UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE' in white, and 'Online 4-15 July, 2022.' in white.

SASA Intern and Volunteer Positions

SASA Intern and Volunteer Positions

<https://www.saveancientstudies.org/>

Save Ancient Studies Alliance (SASA) is pleased to announce that we have a number of Intern and Volunteer Positions opening over the Summer period. These positions are a fantastic way of getting involved with a vibrant educational community and outreach-oriented non-profit in the Ancient Studies sector, and can also qualify as college credits for those in full-time study. SASA is looking for people from all kinds of backgrounds, who are interested in growing, developing their skills, and making a difference. We enjoy working together with like-minded individuals from around the world, who believe in SASA's mission - to raise awareness of the Downward Trend and work to counteract it. SASA aims to inspire a broad, inclusive community of learners and students by building a grassroots movement through outreach, collaboration, accessibility, and public scholarship. These positions are diverse and incorporate a range of different skill sets.

OPPORTUNITIES

Director, David Parr House CIO

Director

David Parr House CIO, Cambridge

Salary: £40,000 p/a

Contract: Full Time, Fixed Term (3 years)

Closing date: 18 April 2022

Building on the achievement of restoring a unique hidden gem of the arts & crafts movement and opening it to the public, the David Parr House is looking for a Director to provide vision, creative thinking, leadership and management of a small, vibrant team of staff and over 40 active volunteers. The role is to take the charity forward to the next level and to develop a sustainable, innovative and engaging future.

Background to the David Parr House CIO

The David Parr House CIO was set up in 2014 and opened to the public in May 2019 after undergoing a conservation program of work, funded by the National Lottery Heritage Fund (NLHF). During this time, the CIO acquired the property next door, converting it into a Visitors Centre with a flat above. It also secured a second grant from the NLHF (one of only 8 organisations to do so) in order to raise a £1M endowment for the house; a target that was reached in May 2020. The amount of revenue the organisation can make from footfall alone is limited due to a cap on visitors numbers based on its size and conservation constraints. For this reason, a variety of quality income streams is especially important for the organisation.

The house proved to be extremely popular with the public and was fully booked during its first year of operation. It was supported by a thriving and committed group of volunteers, one full time member of staff, and an active

Board, and has attracted much attention from a wide variety of media including The World of Interiors, Radio 4, Apollo, Guardian, House and Garden, Vogue...

The house was once again fully booked for the 2020 season but due to COVID had to shut for in-person visits in March of that year. This did not bring an end to its ambitions or operation. Time was spent applying for grants and developing a vibrant digital offer including an innovative virtual tour, a lively program of on-line events, talks, exhibitions and workshops, and shop. It also worked hard to support and engage the volunteer workforce throughout its shutdown. The new digital offer has helped to grow our audience and staff both geographically and demographically, and has allowed the CIO to envision an interesting way to develop its future.

We are now looking for someone to drive the next phase of the organisation's development; to forge this creative vision for the future, to build on the opportunities that have been opened up, and to support and inspire the staff, volunteers and Board.

For full job description and person specification visit: www.davidparrhouse.org/jobs

Please e-mail a CV (including 2 referees who will be contacted with consent, after interview) and Covering Letter explaining why you are interested in the job, what you can bring to the position and your suitability for it. Tamsin Wimhurst, Chair of Trustees, tamsin@davidparrhouse.org

OPPORTUNITIES

Relationship Manager, Engagement and Audiences

Relationship Manager, Engagement and Audiences

Arts Council, Cambridge Office

Contract: Full Time, Permanent

Salary: £32,615 per annum

Closing Date: 19 April 2022

We are on a mission to make sure that the arts and cultural activities we fund are inclusive and that everyone in England has the chance to lead creative and cultural lives no matter what their background. Music, theatre, galleries, dance, literature, museums, libraries – it's about access to all of these and more. Can you help us?

You will be passionate and knowledgeable about audience development and engagement in the arts and cultural sector, with experience of working in one or more of the artforms or disciplines we fund. You will excel at building relationships and be good at influencing people at all levels.

You will give funding advice to individuals and organisations, about Arts Council National Lottery Project Grants and other funds. Through this work you will help to improve the reach of the projects we fund. Internally, you will work with and support a wide range of colleagues, sharing your knowledge and expertise of audience development and engagement. You will support our decision-making processes, writing assessments and being on funding panels.

You will be part of a place team, building your local knowledge and relationships in a specific place in order to increase funding and access to culture. You will support and monitor a small number of Creative People and Places projects and organisations which we fund. You will need an understanding of how arts and cultural organisations are run, including planning, financial reporting, performance management and governance.

This role will work across the East of England, based in the Cambridge office. Interviews will be held remotely. This is an excellent opportunity to join Arts Council England and to develop a broad and strategic perspective of the arts and culture sector.

Disabled, D/deaf and/or neurodivergent people, those from Black, Asian and Ethnically Diverse backgrounds and people under 30 are under-represented in our workforce so we particularly encourage applications from people in these groups.

Please read our application guidance for further information on the application process
